You've played eleven weeks of Friend or Foe so far, yet some of us don't know a whole lot about you yet outside of the game. Can you tell us a little bit about yourself when you're not playing in FoF?

TOP thelimster

Graduated from UC Santa Cruz in December of 2021, now working in marketing for a renewable energy software & consulting firm in Boulder, CO. Love playing soccer.

JNG Swiifty

My name's Ross, I'm 26, live in NYC. I actually started out playing amateur competitive LoL at a gaming café in Chinatown about 7 years ago. I work as an MEP Project Manager (MEP stands for mechanical, electrical, plumbing) for a Construction Company - I majored in electrical engineering at Union College and have done engineering in the construction industry in Manhattan since I graduated. I'm actually fully staffed on a 76-story, 1,000 ft supertall next to Grand Central in Midtown right now, which is something that I'm really proud to be doing but it's also daunting in that it's probably the largest building I'll ever be responsible for building.

Outside of absolutely tearing it up on the Rift I play softball and do a lot of singing. I grew up doing theatre (my twin ended up getting his BFA in Acting), and while I don't really have the time to perform in that capacity anymore I still really enjoy showing off at karaoke and singing with my twin for the fun of it. I'm fairly certain Chris and Brendan got to catch some of me singing for no reason during game comms against YUBI. Entertaining and performing is something I don't get to do a lot in my adult life (particularly when my career is the antithesis of it) so I can and will use any and every opportunity to be the center of attention.

MID Freedom Potatoes

Outside of FoF, I work at Stanford as a scientist, though a career in game development or esports also sounds pretty neat to me. I produce electronic music and DJ from time to time as well, and love exploring new music - I hit the maximum number of songs Spotify will let you put in a playlist (which is 10,000) and had to make a new one because of it. I also like playing shooter games like VALORANT and Apex Legends, and strategy games like Civ and XCOM.

Also a fun fact: thelimster, maTsTaT and I all grew up on the same block as kids.

BOT MaTsTaT

I'm currently what's called an "AT" (aviation electronics technician) in the US Navy living in Jacksonville, FL. Where I call home though is the Bay Area in California. I grew up 15 minutes south of San Francisco in a city called San Mateo. I would say my main hobbies are sports and video games, though I have recently took up bouldering thanks to Jamie and I have been doing that a lot as well. I love beaches as well, as I have always lived close to the water. I get out of the Navy this coming January and am hoping to secure a job somewhere in California or go back to school there.

SUP Skarloey

I've done Case Picking for Ryder the past 9 months and was very fortunate enough to get a promotion to Warehouse Coordinator through my hard work, organizational skills, and attention to detail. I'm not quite sure if climbing the ladder there is exactly what I want to do with my life, However it's been a good ride there so far so who knows.

SUB Lfrith

I spend time with my new born and my 3 dogs (and sometimes my wife too I guess). Play a lot of video games in my free time and read a lot of manga.

You've officially gone as far as a team can go in a Friend or Foe season. What are your most memorable moments from this season?

TOP thelimster

First game against YUBI where we won in ~24 minutes was very memorable. First loss against Asura in Week 1 is also memorable cause it humbled us a bit. Most memorable moment of season so far is definitely our Semifinal series last week.

JNG Swiifty

The most memorable moment for me has to be the Trundle penta against Art of War. I know in FoF I'm known for my Volibear (which truthfully is probably the one champ I've truly "mastered"), but a lot of the wider amateur League scene knows me for my Trundle - in all honesty Trundle is my favorite champion. It's a bit of a niche pick, and certainly not known for dropping pentakills. So to have a moment like that memorialized in a VOD and for it to be on the champ I first gained some notoriety for, against a team that we needed to beat to take first seed felt amazing.

Another moment that felt really good was stealing Baron off Utility Monster in semifinals. I sort of made my name known when I first entered FoF in season 5 when I took like 6 objectives from him while on New Wave Tsunami to deliver them their first loss of the season, so to have that bookend moment to end YUBI's legacy and steal that Baron felt really awesome. I didn't want to harp on it or anything after game because probably most people besides Josh and I wouldn't even remember but when that happened I just knew that in that moment, he and I were both thinking the same thing.

MID Freedom Potatoes

My most memorable moments would probably be Swiifty's Trundle penta, since it was such a cool way to close out a high-stakes game for us, and more recently our final teamfight win against YUBI was exhilarating since it meant us making finals. Our whole team was also kind of losing our minds watching BBZ take down AWE since we expected the series to go the other way, so that was pretty exciting!

BOT MaTsTaT

This has been honestly been quite a ride. This has been my first time competing in a league and it has been very rewarding. I wouldn't be able to pick a single or few moments of memory, all I can say was I took something new and fun away from each part. Qualifiers were fun because it was new for me and the anticipation of seeing how me and my team stacked up was really high. Regular season was a grind which I loved. Practicing with the team, trying out different supports until finally getting one we felt was the right fit was interesting for sure. Making sure we were bringing our A game every week so we can smash everyone. Playoffs have been fun to watch as well as partake in as well. The anticipation has been high and it has been enjoyable feeling like I am playing for something more, with people I care about.

SUP Skarloey

Winning versus YUBI was my most memorable moment, it was our first Best-of-5 as a team and I felt like I played very well in Game 4. I played lane phase quite well, and I helped my team take over the game.

SUB Lfrith

Being the "6th" man for a team is a cool experience. I got to fill in for a lot more games than we originally anticipated but the most memorable moments are getting to lock in Naafiri and then my trist game where I just took like 5 towers early on.

3.

You are the new kids in our season, so tell us, now that you're at the end, what'd you think?

TOP thelimster

The community is great, and lots of effort clearly goes into producing and operating the league. I enjoyed the self-fulfilling prophecy of Oriri freaking out about drawing red in semifinals and then losing to BBZ. In general, this format of league, where you can scout your opponents and plan for weeks before a game, is super fun and rewarding.

JNG Swiifty

This has been my favorite split of competitive LoL I think I've ever played. I'm a seasoned veteran of a lot of other leagues but this is only my second time returning to FoF after my time with New Wave Tsunami. I've always wanted to come back just because of how much fun I had last time (even with NWT being a pretty dang awful team). I came halfway through the season, was immediately welcomed into the community and the "storyline." After NWT's run ended I knew I had to come back, and I'm so glad I did.

MID Freedom Potatoes

Being new to the league and organized play in general, this has been the best introduction I could've asked for! It's seriously been one of the most fun things I've ever put my time into. Prepping for games, watching other teams play and seeing all the work that is put into the show, and of course duking it out with other teams on the rift is probably my favorite part of the week.

BOT MaTsTaT

I thought the season was for the most part really well run. There were some unavoidable moments with scheduling which is definitely understandable but other than that it was great. Things like doing interviews as well as having an excel spreadsheet of all the players stats was cool to see.

SUP Skarloey

I've expressed this many times, This league has been my favorite league I've ever competed in. The broadcast was great, I loved the waiting screen art and the custom music. FoF Connect was really cool. And overall the amount of content produced was phenomenal. I'm personally not a big fan of the traditional league format (8-9 weeks bo1) and would love to see something different from the replacement for FoF. (Something like the LEC format with bo1s for 3 weeks, bo3s for a couple weeks, then bo5s. and have promotion/relegation for weaker teams.)

SUB Lfrith

Swiifty and I have played in quite a few leagues before, I personally think FoF's production value is really high in relation to a lot of the am leagues I have had the opportunity to play in. I feel like the community was pretty tight knit and cool people as well which was fun to be a part of.

OverSoul Esports

MVP votes are about to be tallied. Who do you think deserves Season MVP the most?

Swiifty

JNG Swiifty

This is a bit of a tricky one to answer. And I think there's three people that come to mind for me.

I think if you ask different people they would qualify "most valuable" slightly differently. I think there's an argument for a player like AMID, as AWE basically one and lost by him. He was THE carry of that team and pulled arguably the most weight out of any player in the league. However, I wouldn't call him the MVP. In my opinion, the MVP doesn't lose those Akali games in the BBZ series, and quite honestly he threw the game for Art of War.

I know it may be a bit of a cop-out but the next two are OVS players. I think Liam (thelimster) absolutely deserves to be in discussion for MVP. I think in a league filled with some really impressive top laners, for him to look that good above the rest and consistently be ahead and winning 1v2's and soak up extraordinary amounts of pressure is insane. Not only is his play incredible, but he's also an amazing teammate. He's the first guy to say "hell yeah, good job man." He's the last guy to tilt on the team. He's a top laner who takes initiative and is an active part of shotcalling and communications. He's quite literally the whole package, and has been pulling an incredible amount of weight on OVS. Without Liam, OVS would be nowhere near as successful as we are right now. And while I think every one of my guys plays a key role in that, Liam's our rock - the foundation of the house of OverSoul.

I don't want to be that guy, but I would also like to make an argument for myself. While I don't think my competition is as tough as Liam's I do think I've stood out high and above every other jungle in FoF this season. I don't know if there's anyone else who can match my pace of play and decision making, and have the mechanical ability to back it all up. I think a big part of what makes OverSoul scary is myself, as we might be the one team with a jungler who puts his foot on the gas and makes aggressive proactive plays and then doesn't let up...

I've had the most MVP games on the season, highest KDA of any jungler, sit high on the leaderboards for nearly every stat, a Trundle Pentakill, I've captained a group of brand new players to a Finals appearance and possibly a Championship title, and even had to put my foot down and stand up for my team in the wake of some out-of-game adversity (Chris knows). I don't think there's another player, let alone another jungler, who can say they've done what I have. I'm sure all of this probably sounds conceited as hell, but I'd be lying if I say I wasn't immensely proud of myself for everything I have done this season.

MID Freedom Potatoes

I think there's an argument to be made for AMID as regular season MVP, as I think AWE's performance rode very strongly on how AMID performed, and in almost every game he was a very solid performer. On the other hand, in the BBZ playoff series, he looked a lot shakier.

Overall, I would probably give it to our very own toplaner, thelimster. Obviously there's some team bias coming in there, but he has been almost absurdly consistent for us, pretty much never losing lane and finding great success in the late game too.

BOT MaTsTaT

My vote would personally go to Swiifty. Performing well each week while also being available each and every week has been huge for us. Not to mention being our captain as well, making sure we all knew the schedule and where to find it as well as where to be.

SUP Skarloey

Everyone's MVP definition is different, outside of anyone on my team, I'd say AMID. I don't think AWE is the same team if they don't have him. Including our team, I'd say Swiifty

SUB Lfrith

I think if we are looking at pre-playoffs I feel AMID brought a lot of value to AoW.

5.

How are you personally preparing for this final match?

TOP thelimster

Checking op.gg every day to see if Jafy/other BBZ members are cooking up spicy picks. Jafy has played lots of Malph and some Illaoi recently, but I'm confident against both. I don't think he's confident enough to pull out Illaoi in finals, and his Malph build is the no-damage Comet/Frostfire build that Renekton should do fine into.

JNG Swiifty

Well as a team, we are obviously doing our draft prep and VOD review homework. But personally I've just been playing some solo queue games to adjust to new patch changes and trying to generally take it easy. I'm aiming to not psych myself out prior to the Best of 5.

MID Freedom Potatoes

I'm gonna get a proper night's sleep, for one - for probably 80% of our season's games, I had to wake up extra early so that I could take off of work in time for the games. I've also been playing some ranked flex and solo/duo. I actually had a bonkers 12-game winstreak, though I finally lost it a few days ago. I've been testing some new picks in scrims too, to be ready for anything.

BOT MaTsTaT

Solo queue, Flex queue. Scheming up drafts with my team.

SUP Skarloey

I've spent my entire free time for the finals, I made a scouting document for BBZ which includes their drafts and VODS from all of their games, as well as some other information. Other than that, I've been playing soloQ.

SUB Lfrith

I just play games at night when the baby is sleeping to keep the hands good and check in with the team to see if they need anything. I do not think this match needs a bunch of special preparation per se. But that's also the 6th man benefit, everything is a bit lower stress until the phone rings.

OverSoul Esports

There is one last best-of-five left for you. What score do you predict?

TOP thelimster

3-1 OVS

JNG Swiifty

I think I said 3-0 for us in the interview, but in all reality I think it'll be a 3-1. BBZ is a good team, and they definitely can take games off us. But at the end of the day it's gonna be OVS on top.

MID Freedom Potatoes

Last series, I predicted a 3-0, and then we lost a game. So I'm gonna predict a 3-1, and hope that I'm wrong ;)

BOT MaTsTaT

3-1 OVS

SUP Skarloey

3-0 OVS, In our series vs YUBI, We were heavily egoing, especially in Game 3 where we ended up losing. We learned to respect our opponents more in series like this, and I don't think we'll make the same mistake vs BBZ.

SUB Lfrith

I think 3-1 OVS is the likely outcome. But I think these will be some of the better games we have seen this season, so I am not expecting a hard stomp 3-1 or anything.

OverSoul Esports

When all this is over and Friend or Foe concludes it's time on the internet, will you still be competing elsewhere? What's next for you in esports? Will you try out other Leagues?

TOP thelimster

We'll definitely look to continue competing. This is our first season together and we're all enjoying it lots.

JNG Swiifty

Of course I will. Hopefully a championship title will help put OverSoul Esports on the map a little more, and my boys can take our talents to Aegis or Titan or wherever. I think we found something really special with this group of guys and to only play one season would be a waste.

MID Freedom Potatoes

We're planning on sticking together and playing in another league. If we can grind ranked hard enough we might see if we can hang in a league with some diamonds in it; where exactly is still up in the air though.

BOT MaTsTaT

My goal is to move up into a harder league and compete there, ideally with the same team we have now

SUP Skarloey

The plan after FoF is to stay as a team and look for another league to conquer, as well as finding a coach to help us unlock our full potential. I genuinely think we found something special as a team and think we can go far in other leagues in the future.

SUB Lfrith

I would like to keep competing elsewhere, but its definitely hard to devote the time needed to perform when you have a new born.

OverSoul Esports

7.

Lastly, is there anything you'd like to say before the final official match begins?

TOP thelimster

Thanks to the FoF team and community for this great season!

JNG Swiifty

This has been the single greatest competitive League of Legends experience I've had, in the nearly 7 (?) years I've been doing it. Thank you guys so much not only for putting this dope ass experience together, but having our backs outside of game as well. All of my guys are incredibly grateful for the experience here, and for our player(s) that may have felt targeted by some unfortunate stuff outside of game, knowing that Chris and Brendan and the team were supporting us and willing to work with us meant a lot. Y'all kick ass.

MID Freedom Potatoes

I feel like a lot of people have been sleeping on us since the start of the season, but on Monday they're finally going to wake up.

BOT MaTsTaT

thelimster is the best top in the league
swiifty is the best jungler in the league
freedompotatoes is the best mid in the league
I am the best adc in the league
Skarloey is the best support in the league
Keep giving swiifty volibear
Valar morghulis

SUB Lfrith

I just think its wild that our starting roster is the best team in the league, and that doesnt change even if we start subbing people in and out. Im confident OVS wins this series without me even needing to play, but I think BBZ should prep for the 6th man anyways.

Blue Bayou Zoo

(from left to right): Champion Red, Jafy, Fire Mana, Dakks, Jacobdudar2

1.

You've played eleven weeks of Friend or Foe so far, yet some of us don't know a whole lot about you yet outside of the game. Can you tell us a little bit about yourself when you're not playing in FoF?

BBZ Dakks unfortunately could not respond to an interview at this time

TOP Jafy

Other than League of Legends, I am currently playing Blasphemous 2, Remnant 2, and Marvel Snap. I used to play a lot of Call of Duty, but the past few years have been really bad in my opinion. The next CoD might be the first one I won't buy ever since I started playing, which was CoD4.

I also work in IT, so I'm always around computers and anything tech related. I got into computers ever since I bought my first PC off of my older brother and been upgrading the parts ever since. That was a little over 10 years ago when I was still in high school.

MID Fire Mana

I'm fairly certain that I'm one of the youngest players in FoF at the moment at 20. I'm a student attending a community college, majoring in anthropology, and set to transfer into a four-year program next year. I also work part-time in a Cafe that's attached to my city's public library.

SUP Jacobdudar2

Im a software engineer. I like to play video games when Im not at work. I mostly play strategy games but like to play league with friends.

2.

You've officially gone as far as a team can go in a Friend or Foe season. What are your most memorable moments from this season?

TOP Jafy

The one game I was able to play Gangplank was pretty memorable. It was also the first game of the season, and I was super surprised it got through. After that, it was banned pretty much every game. It's funny because I was planning on playing unique champs every game, so every team after our first game didn't even need to ban Gangplank. It was always fun to see that ban.

MID Fire Mana

It's hard to think of really specific moments because I've honestly enjoyed the entire journey to this point. Playoffs have probably been the most hype part of the season for me though.

BOT Champion Red

Most of Jafys side lane shenanigans are usually highlights when I'm playing with him. I think my personal favorite was against FP when I was playing twitch and I accidentally fat fingered ult twice during laning phase. Sunga had recorded our comms in game 3, but I really wish someone was recording me in game 2 when I accidentally ulted.

SUP Jacobdudar2

I mostly remember our team getting Jacoonked or losing to Amid split push. But playing every team felt unique and different which was cool. For me personally ammumu has been pretty good and I've had some interesting moments on him

3.

To BBZ Fire Mana & Jacobdudar2: You are the new kids in our season, so tell us, now that you're at the end, what'd you think?

MID Fire Mana

This is the most fun I've ever had playing League. I don't think I could properly express my gratitude towards all of the staff, players, and especially my teammates for being so friendly and welcoming. Genuinely appreciate all of you guys.

SUP Jacobdudar2

I really love FOF, its been the most fun I've had playing this game.

4.

MVP votes are about to be tallied. Who do you think deserves Season MVP the most?

TOP Jafy

I think AMID has been a very valuable asset to AWE. He's a very flexible player and can do very well in most, if not all roles. He even solo carried a couple games that could've ended as a loss.

MID Fire Mana

Regardless of the fact that I just clapped both of them, AMID and Jacoonk were really standout players in the regular season. AMID especially seemed critical to his team's success.

BOT Champion Red

I view MVP slightly differently than some people because to me the MVP is the player that brought the most to their team. For me the clear MVP is Jacoonk. The absolute dominance he had in the Mid lane throughout the season was a massive part of why FP was able to win so many games.

SUP Jacobdudar2

If we win its going to be because of Jafy

Blue Bayou Zoo

5.

How are you personally preparing for this final match?

TOP Jafy

I've just been grinding solo-queue games to keep the rust off. I've also been proacting a few new champs that might be seen on stage.

MID Fire Mana

Same way BBZ has been practicing for every other series this playoffs: Barely.

BOT Champion Red

I've been enjoying my time playing other games. Personally I've found that when I grind too much league I underperform. For me FOF is mostly my entire time even playing league.

SUP Jacobdudar2

Getting good sleep and a couple warm up games is how I've been going through this whole season. Gonna have some int games before to get it out of system.

There is one last best-of-five left for you. What score do you predict?

TOP Jafy

I can see it going 3-2. A 3-0 finals isn't fun for the viewers.

MID Fire Mana

So far none of the playoffs series have gone to five games, and I think if any of them are going to, it's gonna be this one. 3-2 BBZ.

BOT Champion Red

3-1 BBZ

SUP Jacobdudar2

3-2 BBZ

When all this is over and Friend or Foe concludes it's time on the internet, will you still be competing elsewhere? What's next for you in esports? Will you try out other Leagues?

TOP Jafy

Yeah, I'll be looking to compete elsewhere with another team. We're still looking for a good league though. It's hard to choose when we have standards coming from FoF.

MID Fire Mana

I very well might. I can't say for certain, but I'm a competitive guy at heart, and FoF has revitalized my interest in other independent organized leagues.

BOT Champion Red

Probably not. I've been a part of FOF for the last 2 years, and it truly is one of a kind.

SUP Jacobdudar2

I will try to find more leagues like FOF

8.

Lastly, is there anything you'd like to say before the final official match begins?

TOP Jafy

Good Luck Have Fun, OVS. I hope you get enough sleep after the games.

MID Fire Mana

I warned you all that BBZ was unleashed now. I'll let our gameplay speak for itself.

BOT Champion Red

GLHF, I'm looking forward to my final games in FOF regardless of outcome.

SUP Jacobdudar2

Thank you Oriri

Blue Bayou Zoo has returned to the Grand Finals for the first time since Season 3, where they lost against Yuuniversal Basic Income. Three out of the five members are multi-finalist players facing against a completely new team in Friend or Foe - OverSoul Esports.

BBZ Jafy has appeared in the Grand Finals two times before Season 7. Last season being his first Championship run with Team AAAA. Jafy has been titled as the best top laner in FoF Heroic history. Despite his accolades, OVS thelimster has proven his worth as one of the most aggressive top laners in the season. This final matchup could cement who can really hold the title of FoF's best top laner in history.

BBZ Dakks has been widely considered one of the most aggressive junglers in FoF history. Sometimes to a fault, his aggression has led BBZ to many early victories propelling them into a solid midgame. On the other side, OVS Swiifty has proven to be just as aggressive. Who will come out on top?

BBZ Fire Mana is a brand new rookie coming into the final season of FoF. Right off the bat, he came out swinging, impressing a lot of casters and opposing mid laners with some of his signature picks. Despite this, Fire Mana hasn't been able to prove himself well against Freedom Potatoes yet. Can Fire Mana stay reserved under the pressure in the Grand Finals?

BBZ Champion Red is a three-time champion, formerly a top laner for YUBI and a jungler for Team AAAA in Season 6. Red has dreamed of winning a title with his original squad for a long time. Now that the opportunity has presented itself, everything will come down to how well Red can play under the pressure of the final game. A well boiled egg in a bowl of ramen is necessary.

BBZ Jacobdudar 2 is another rookie making his Grand Finals debut. Jacob's laning and teamfighting has been constantly highlighted in BBZ's wins. A lot of engages ride on Jacob's ability to play under pressure. Is Jacob the final key needed to grant BBZ a championship?

OverSoul Esports Incarnate has made their first and last Grand Finals appearance in the final season of Friend or Foe. This new squad of seasoned players sought to take the league by storm right from the beginning, and so they did. They have one final challenge before they can claim the last crown - Blue Bayou Zoo.

OVS thelimster was easily a fan-favorite top laner to watch right from the get go. His aggressive laning and affliction for action made us in the Green Room drop our jaws almost every week. Thelimster will be up against BBZ Jafy, the best top laner in FoF Heroic history - an extremely appropriate matchup for the final game of Friend or Foe.

OVS Swiifty originally gathered this squad with the sole mission of winning the championship. His aggressive playstyle and shotcalling instantly propelled OVS to the top of the standings. Now, he's up against Dakks, one of the most aggressive Junglers in FoF history. I truly wonder which of these two Junglers will come out on top.

OVS Freedom Potatoes had immediately caught the attention of every mid laner in FoF. His calm and cool playstyle was shined everytime he was in the right place at the right time in every game and never misstepped. How will Freedom Potatoes' solid and defensive play fare against the wild card rookie, BBZ Fire Mana?

OVS maTsTaT has been an exceptionally solid ADC throughout the entire season. Matt currently has the highest KDA stat out of the entire team, which is showcased by his sometimes near-perfect play. His consistency will be matched up against Champion Red, another solid ADC that rarely makes mistakes. How will Matt compare against the season multi-champion?

OVS Skarloey has exponentially improved during his time in Friend or Foe. Coming in half-way through the split is a tough ask, so the fact that he's played so well to make it to the Grand Finals speaks volumes. His initiative and decisionmaking has been proven to be faster than Jacobdudar's, so I'm curious how this matchup turns out.
